

Reading Nook

Words and music by Andrea Dale, January 2005 ©

Chorus:

I want a reading nook
A place to curl up and read a book
I want a reading nook, with a spot for hot tea / coffee
I want a reading nook
A corner to hide when tired and shook
I want a reading nook just for me

I need some reading therapy, a little mental pampering
Talking faster than a bunch of hamsters swiftly scampering
Tuck my feet beneath a quilt, close my eyes to rest
Before reading a brand new book, until I am possessed

Chorus

I'll create my reading nook, beneath my office supply mess
Reorganize my closet to fit my pack-rat evidence
Buy a comfy leather chair, from a second hand store, next door
Move in a few well-loved tomes of my fiction fantasy lore

Chorus

In a pool of soft light, I'll sit in a corner
Relish modern fairy tales and space adventure's bolder
Music softly echoing, a little Norah Jones
Vanilla candles scent the air, while I eat fresh apricot scones
